Two Beckenhauer Projects Recognized In Build Nebraska Awards

Beckenhauer Construction received Honorable Mention for two projects in the first annual Build Nebraska Awards, given by the Nebraska Chapter of Associated General Contractors (AGC). This program is designed to recognize outstanding projects built by members of the AGC Nebraska Building Chapter. By honoring the very best, outstanding performance and quality construction are promoted throughout the state.

In the category of "Building—Less than $5 Million," we received Honorable Mention for Spier Physical Therapy in Norfolk, Nebraska.

In the category of "Building Renovation (Any dollar amount)," we received Honorable Mention for UNK Bruner Hall.

Thanks and kudos to the hardworking teams that put these projects together.

Exemplary Safety

Beckenhauer Construction has received an AGC of America Safety Award for the second year in a row. Awards were given for safety excellence demonstrated by a record of zero lost-time incidences during the past three years. A huge "Thank You" to Jeff Ackerman, our safety director, for making this happen, and to our entire staff for their contributions to working safely.

Employee of the Year

Construction is always challenging, but with a great team, the job is able to go smoothly. Among those who were able to help meet those challenges was our Employee of the Year, Jim Bargaen.

Jim is the model for what we seek in a top-notch superintendent: positive attitude, quality workmanship, attention to detail, keen eye for quality, safety for all, on time, under budget and a delighted owner.

Jim is a very driven individual, an outstanding team player, and already has a proven track record of delivering on what's asked of him. Jim is the model for what we seek in a top-notch superintendent: positive attitude, quality workmanship, attention to detail, keen eye for quality, safety for all, on time, under budget and a delighted owner. Jim has a very bright future, and we expect to see great things from him.

Thanks, Jim, and congratulations on being our 2010 Employee of the Year.
