

BUILDING BLOCKS

WINTER 2001

On Time And Within Budget

Oftentimes, these “buzz words” end up in the promotional material of almost everyone in our line of work. The words are easy to say, but not nearly so easy to turn into reality. If, however, you believe in what you say, make it a corporate commitment from the top down, and surround yourself with high quality subcontractors, the potential exists to make it happen.

We at Beckenhauer Construction have been blessed with talented people and have been fortunate to be able to partner with excellent subs over the years. Recently, we found out how well these folks were able to rise to the challenge of “on time and in budget” when it really mattered.

Case # 1

The Norfolk Family YMCA set out on “Renovation 2000,” an interior renovation and refurbishing project. Major elements of the building were to receive extensive changes, including replacement of all carpet, new weight and exercise area, and conversion of one of the racquetball courts.

The building is heavily used, so the intent was to only close the building for one week—primarily for the carpet replacement. Outside of the construction crew and the executive director, Randy Hagedorn, few, including the board, thought it could happen. It took a lot of effort, especially on the part of the crews, the staff, and many volunteers, but it all came together, bringing a great deal of satisfaction to those involved.

Case # 2

Ainsworth Community Schools addition and renovation project culminated with the final major renovation having to take place last summer. Nearly 50,000 sf of floor space was in some form of remodel during this short 12-week time frame. All but a handful of rooms had to be back in operation and ready for the fall school session. Once again, dedication, hard work, lots of overtime and perseverance by some outstanding subs, Beckenhauer's crew, and a hard working school staff made it happen.

It's not always simply building a great looking structure that fills you with pride in this business. Many times it's the satisfaction gained from working with exceptional people and achieving the so called "impossible" goal.

'Tis The Season

It's hard to believe that a whole year has passed since we all sat, holding our collective breath, waiting to see if we would survive Y2K. Well, we did, and with a minimal amount of inconvenience.

Truth be told, 2000 has been an exceptional year. The overall economy, and our own business in particular, have prospered.

In general, here at Beckenhauer Construction, life is good. And for that, we can only thank you—our clients, subcontractors, vendors, employees and corporate friends. Our success is solely the result of your efforts and we want to take this opportunity to express our most sincere appreciation.

May you have the happiest of holidays and a healthy and prosperous 2001.
